DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

2. Claims 1-3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hwang (U.S. patent 5,357,051).

Regarding claim 1, Hwang teaches layered structure with electric leads (1, 2, 21, 22), and electric signals that are fed along metallic leads being adhered to a layer on the structure (figures 1-4). Hwang further teaches a first lead (21) and a second lead (22) for connecting a first terminal and a second terminal of a component as claimed (figures 1, 5, 6).

As shown in figures 1 and 2, the first and second leads (21, 22) are passed side by side and alternating on the two sides (10, 10a) of the layer (1), and the two leads (21, 22) cross one another at an angle as claimed.

Hwang does not specifically teach that the leads (21, 22) are connected to an amplifier at one end and to a hearing aid receiver at the other end. However, Hwang does teach a receiver that operatively receives the signal output from a transmitter and has a receiver loop end connected with the two leads (21, 22) at an output end portion (figure 1). Further, providing a printed circuit board with the electric leads for a hearing aid is known in the art.

Therefore, it would have been obvious to one skilled in the art to provide the printed circuit board (1, 21, 22), as taught by Hwang, for connecting an amplifier at one end and to a receiver in the other end of any electronic or audio devices such as a hearing aid for greater application.

Regarding claim 2, the leads (21, 22) of Hwang pass in a way that a maximum number of twists is achieved (figures 1-4).

Regarding claim 3, Hwang shows the leads and the through holes as claimed (see figure 1, 7 and 8).

Conclusion

3. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

Hickox (U.S. patent 3,598,928) teaches a circuit board in a hearing aid.
